NATIONAL VOLUNTEERING WEEK

“

Volunteerism in today's context could be the most potent force to bind the country together by giving an opportunity to people to participate, contribute and be a part of India's growth journey. India@75 has been arduously working towards creating synergy amongst the various stakeholders with common objective. I see a perceptible change in the mind set of corporates towards volunteerism. We need to encourage and harness the volunteer energy in India.

Road traffic safety projects are critical for creating safety conscious society. Initiatives such as the volunteering week are a good platform to bring everyone together and organise such projects so that we can reach out to more & more people and educate them about road safety.

It's great to include Road Traffic safety projects during the India@75 National Volunteering Week celebration. We are organizing these campaigns in association with www.webridge.online. Many people lose their lives daily due to negligence of traffic rules and hence it is our duty to make them aware of the same and ensure that they follow these rules.
